Sanjay Ginde

VP OF ENGINEERING

Sanjay the Vice President of Engineering at Contently. Before leading Contently's engineering team in 2011, he was a technical architect at Roundarch (now Isobar U.S.) in Chicago, where he built websites and web applications for large enterprises like the U.S. Air Force and IDG. As one of Contently's first employees, Sanjay has been integral in building Contently into a world-class product, leading the engineering of every part of the technology stack. Sanjay graduated with distinction in computer science from Duke University. He currently lives in the East Village and spends his free time playing Blondie on the jukebox at his local dive bar.
